Carener Arthur G. Bill to Hold Inquest In O'Noil Case—Automobile Collis-ion—War Rally, With Inspiring Ad-dresses by Rev. William A. Keefa and Judge E. M. Warner — Bonefit Entertainment - Unlighted Cars

Corener Arthur G. Bill of Danielsen will come here this morning to open at the superior court, an inquest relative to the death of James O'Neil, who was killed when struck by an automobile while he was walking along the highway near Attawaugan a week ago last Saturday night.

A majority of the witnesses that have been summoned will come here from the Grosvenordales. These men were passengers in cars of a group of four that were en route from Moosup, where the men had been attending a fraternal order gathering. to their homes and were passing through Attawaugan just before midnight.

It is knewn that at least one of the cars in the string ran over O'Neil's body as it lay in the road, but Coroner Bill will probe deeper to ascertain, if possible, if O'Neil's death was due to being struck by one of these group of machines.

due to being struck by one of these group of machines.

Several of the men who were in the cars have been interviewed by the authorities relative to the affair and it is understood have made some admissions that are of interest.

It is not charged that the men in those cars were not deporting themselves as they should when they passed through Attawaugan, for all of the evidence that has been obtained in the case tends to indicate that they were in full control of themselves and their acts.

This machine was numbered Conn. 1901, and is owned by a young man resident in Goodyear, whose name had not been obtained up to Sunday by the officials, but who will have an opportunity to do some explaining in the very near future.

WESTFIELD CHURCH

Special Address by Rev. F. D. Sargent and willing members of all churches and parties, animated by one glorious purpose of devotion to the best flag in all the world, be typical of the libert flag in all the world, be typical of the same platform with such an eloquent and graceful oration.

At a service held in the Westfield Congregational church at Danielson Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock there was an address by Rev. F. D. Sargent, paster of the Second Congregational church of this city, and a musical programme by the local church choir. Solos were sung by Miss Josephine M. Gifford, Miss Gladys Robbins and J. Wellson Smith.

I want to call your attention to a practical application of true religion. A recent issue of a Hartford paper gives this story about Chaplain Joseph Twichell. One day Chaplain Flynn came to Mr. Twichell's quarters and said: "I am going to asy you something, it may sound rather strange, and you may not think that I have a right to do so." "Go ahead, go shead, I've heard lots of atrange things," Mr. Twichell said. "Well," the priest continued, "you know when a Rainfail Welcomed.

The storm of Sunday was welcome in many quarters for the reason that it will increase the supply of water available for power at a number of manufacturing plants. Coal is not coming through as rapidly as many would like and this fact proves a constant source of annoyance to big concerns that are rushing government work. Sunday's storm will raise the rivers and produce additional power.

Let me speak a word of caution in connection with Chaplain Twichell. "One of the worst things that the chaplains have to fight," he said, "one of the hardest duties, the thing that causes us and the officers more trouble than anything else, the hardest thing that the enlisted man has to bear, are those letters from home. Mothers, sweethearts and sisters write to their boys at camp and tell them how sorry they are that they cannot to their boys at camp and tell them how sorry they are that they cannot be home. They write disgraceful letters, which depress the men greatly. They tell the soldier how much they miss him, and how they grieve that he is not with the family at home." This is a great mistake.

This phrase "over the top" is the order given to charge the German lines and it means the putting forth of the order given to charge the German lines and it means the putting forth of the very last ounce of strength in any contest. Connecticut in every crisis has done this. This war has forced the states and the United States to examine its title deeds as to rights, privileges and duties. Mankind has during all the arcs been going "over the top" in the fight for liberty. History is made up of the story of these wars. The history of Connecticut is very instructive. We have the first written constitution and in the early years of the colonies Connecticut led the way in forming safe, secure, constitutional government. Enduring, safe government making the world safe for democracy demands certain easily defined characteristics.

Significance of State Flag.

I want to call your attention to the state flag of Connecticut. You will notice the three vines which Lieut. Humphries, aide de camp, of Washington, says signify Knowledge, Liberty, Religion. These tie at the foundation of our state. Let us examine these principles of our state. principles of our civil and political life.
"Knowledge, that which facilitates self-conquest, intensifies individuality, self-conquest, intensifies individuality, unfolds and uplifts munhood, breeds habits of thinking, feeling, doing, emancipates, humbles, and civilizes. It searches for truth, loves the beautiful, desires the good and does the best." We see this carried out in our free public schools, our free churches and our free press and free speech."

Liberty, that freedom of action, public and private, which permits the lic and private, which permits the highest development of the individual, Religion, that vision splendid which,

Men actuated by these principles cannot fail to carry on a safe govern-ment. In any test Connecticut has proved true. In the war of the revo-lution when liberty was in danger. Connecticut under Governor Trumbull furnished more men and more money in proportion to population than any other colony.

Under our splendid war sovernor, William A. Buckingham of Norwich, Connecticut in 1861-4, furnished more
